

You have probably visited a few institutes that are in your locality or those that your friends have suggested. You may have received catalogues, prospectus and Sample Test Papers from many other coaching institutes.

But they all look the same.

Equally promising. So how do you decide?

If you look at the past results of these institutes, they are equally promising. And with so much news about fudging the results, you don't know whom to trust. Those securing top 100 ranks in IIT-JEE seem to have studied in 10 different coaching institutes across the country.

It is all very confusing.

What if your child joins a coaching institute for IIT-JEE /AIEEE and spoils his Class 12th Board exams.

After all, no one can say about competitive exams. There are so many factors that play a role in one's success.

What you are interested in is results. Your child should get a good rank in IIT-JEE / AIEEE. At the same time, he should get a respectable score in his Class 12th Board exams. (So that just in case he does not qualify IIT-JEE or AIEEE, he gets admission in some good college before he attempts IIT-JEE or AIEEE the next year.)

Mission IIT will help you take a decision.

Our suggestions on this website are based on tried and tested methods - basic principles of life. We have been looking at some coaching institutes that are nothing more than commercial ventures. Their basic aim is profit.

Moreover, students come under tremendous pressure trying to adjust their time between the coaching institute and their school.

Some of them give up half way through. But the fees paid is non-refundable. Though that is a secondary issue, but why not take the right decision first time itself.

A lot of time is wasted travelling from home to the coaching institute and back.

If you have sent your child to a distant city to get coaching for IIT-JEE, you are paying a hefty amount for his lodging and boarding expenses. But at the same time you have to be cautious and praying to God, that he does not get into bad company. Freedom at this age sometimes proves harmful.

So, what does Mission IIT suggest?

We suggest self paced learning. Watch out this space for more information.
